An image forming apparatus such as a printer, a copy machine, or a fax machine includes various replaceable components. The replaceable components are replaced according to the life thereof to prolong the life of the apparatus or reduce the running cost. The replaceable components are stored in a replaceable component magazine, and an operator removes the replaceable components from the replaceable component magazine one by one and attaches the removed replaceable components to the image forming apparatus as necessary. In order to prevent the operator from being exposed to harmful light and thus protecting the operator, a structure has been proposed in which a replaceable component magazine is provided with a shutter member that is openably and closably attached to the replaceable component magazine and that covers an opening of the replaceable component magazine to block a light from an exterior when the replaceable component magazine is not attached to the image forming apparatus. For example, an opening and closing device disclosed in Patent Document 1 includes a pair of first and second plates that are openably and closably movable relative to each other and a swingable shaft for swingably moving the first and second plates. The pair of first and second plates are attached to a pair of openings of a replaceable component magazine and a side plate. The pair of first and second plates are configured to be openable and closable by swingably moving the first and second plates in opposite directions each other. Further, a lock lever provided at the swingable shaft is configured to
